

I am appalled to hear that Sinclair Broadcasting' is using its consolidated power to force their stations to show an anti-Kerry documentary in these last contentious days before an election. I'm upset at the brazen use of power to get around fair campaigning rules. But even more, I'm upset that media consolidation has made this kind of thing possible.

Sinclair may have ownership rights over its stations, but it does not own the airwaves. Those belong to the public and their use should be regulated in the public interest. In this case, the interest is clearly in supporting a candidate whose election would bring Sinclair financial gain.

Please prevent this abuse of power and of public trust.
